You should definitely give it a try! This program is an open source PHP grapher that generates line graphs and charts and can generate charts for almost any data source (files, database, script outputs, etc). I'm a programmer and I don't have any graphic design skills. It's been a hassle for me to keep track of graphic design when it comes to building my website. I tried using a lot of different services like StudioPress (not free) and there are plenty of other free ones. These services are really great but they are not efficient (mainly because I want to keep my website's loading time to an absolute minimum) and I'm looking for something easy and efficient to keep track of graphics for my website. If you don't
